In-house Printing & Embroidery

In-House Garment Printing

We print our own full-colour transfers in-house, then heat-press transfers on each garment ourselves. Our full-time print experts use the latest digital technology to deliver a millimetre-perfect finish. It's how we can promise sharp, prompt and efficient delivery.

In-House Garment Embroidery

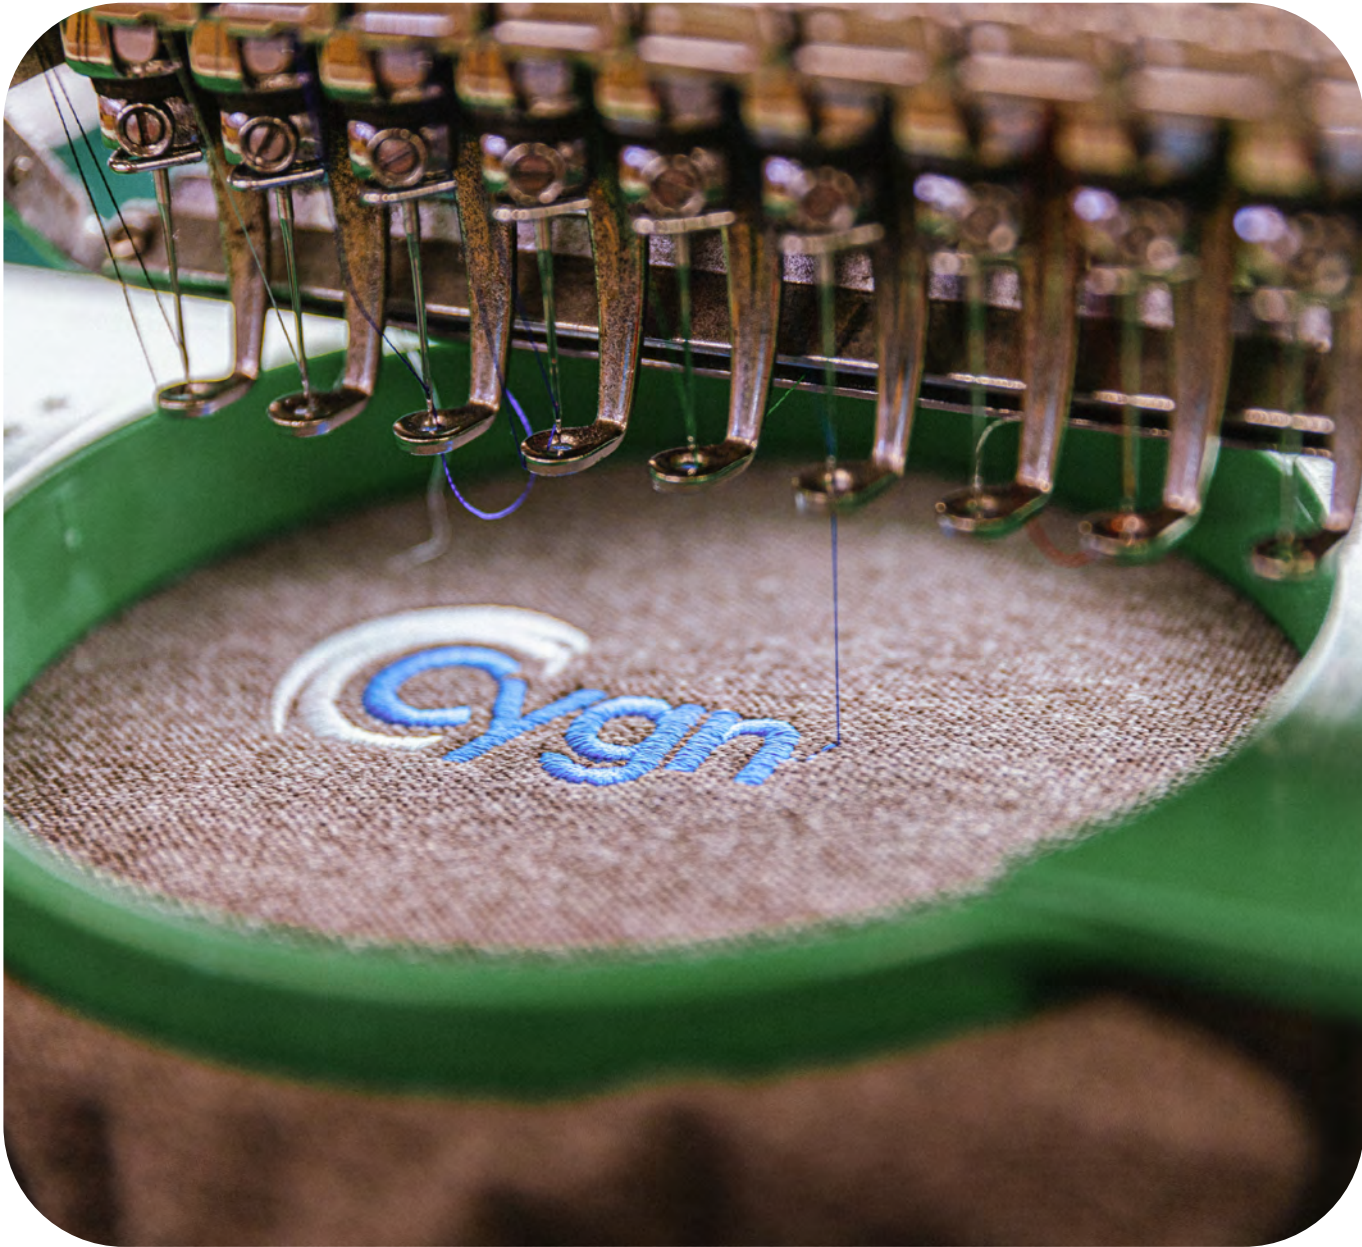

Embroidering garments in-house gives us total control over quality. We don't rely on any external providers. It's how we're able to provide the best service in the industry. When our customers need uniform, we can respond quickly with no middleman.

Our Embroidery Process

We originate and embroider garments ourselves right here in our Christchurch, UK headquarters.

Our talented graphic team convert vectorised logos to embroidery patterns, then our expert machinists work on industry-grade equipment to deliver a precise and vibrant finish.

Embroidered logos can be produced in 1-15 threads (colours) per design. We colour-match to Pantones and keep an extensive threads library in-house.

Direct-To-Film Printing

Film transfers printed and cut in-house. We use a digital DTF printing system for a vibrant, long-lasting finish on printed garments.

Our transfer printer gives us the control and flexibility we need to react to urgent requirements and deliver orders on time for our clients.

Heat Transfer Branding

Swift, precise and long-lasting heat transfers. DTF transfers are heat-pressed in-house on our specialist equipment. We do this work in-house to ensure the quality of your finished garment.

Before goods are packed, we check transfer colours are vibrant, details are sharp and transfers have adhered properly to your garment.

Merchandise Printing

Full-colour high-definition prints. Our digital print technology enables us to brand popular items like padlocks, bottles and notebooks.

We can respond quickly to orders and we offer low minimum quantities on our core product lines.

Bespoke Design Process

Let’s create something special

Custom uniform requests are always an exciting opportunity to create something original. We understand the design process and are equally comfortable working with early-stage concepts or following detailed branding guidelines.

We only work with trusted factories

We have long-term relationships with fabric suppliers and partner producers. We appreciate the importance of great workmanship, colour matching and harmony within collections. This ensures we produce carefully coordinated and beautifully-made garments that truly complement and showcase your brand.

Opt for truly sustainable fabrics

Custom manufacture gives you full control over the textiles and fabrics used in your uniform collection. This means you can opt for organic and recycled textiles with a lower carbon footprint. We can even source polyester made from ocean litter.

A consultative approach

When creating a bespoke uniform collection, our first step is a thorough client consultation. We review your current uniform and brand guidelines, and talk through your ambitions as an organisation. We then create a suite of stunning designs, giving you full control over the colours, fabrics and details in each garment.

Fabric & garment samples

As soon as the designs are approved, we can proceed to the sample stage. Our expert manufacturers will hand-make a single custom garment sample, then air-ship it to us for your review. The sample review process can often take a few weeks, but it’s the only way to achieve the highest standard of quality.

Custom manufacture

Once samples are approved, garments move into full production. We work with the very best custom uniform manufacturers to ensure consistency and quality. We can ship the whole order to your site(s), or we can stock and hold a bank of garments in-house at our Christchurch depot.

SECTOR

Holiday Parks

Holiday Parks bring together an incredible range of roles under one brand, from reception, housekeeping, catering, entertainment, to lifeguards and grounds teams, and what's more is, that your uniform needs to work as hard as they do.

At TMD we understand the realities of multi-site operations, seasonal peaks and the need for uniforms that survive a demanding, outdoor-facing environment without losing their smart, on-brand look.

We design and manufacture ranges built for comfort and durability across every department, from front-of-house and food & beverage wear to activewear for watersports and outdoor teams, all co-ordinated to reflect your brand identity consistently across sites.

Our experience extends beyond uniform into branded merchandise – beach towels, drinks bottles and family activity items, giving you a single source for everything your guests see.

SECTOR

Zoos

From 'Keeper' teams working hands-on with animals to retail, catering and visitor experience staff, a zoo's uniform range has to flex across a wide mix of roles, as well as stand up to a demanding day's work.

Durability and easy care matter as much as branding here, so we build garments that keep their shape and colour through washing, weather and wildlife alike, without compromising on the polished, on-brand finish visitors expect.

Seasonal peaks around school holidays, multi-site collections and staff turnover are all part of the picture we plan for, keeping every department consistent, however busy things get.

Beyond uniform, we also supply the branded extras that bring a day out to life, merchandise such as plush toys, stationery, drinks bottles and gift shop lines all through one joined-up supplier relationship.

Let's talk about what your zoo's uniform range could look like.

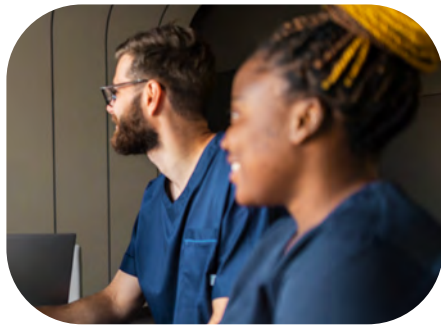

SECTOR

Healthcare

Our Healthcare ranges are designed to ensure staff can carry out their duties practically whilst in style and comfort.

We understand that for those who are being cared for, staff uniforms in the Healthcare sector need to reflect approachability as well as being appropriately identifiable across various job functions. So we treat this sector with the care and attention it demands.

As in other industry sectors, our healthcare customers experience a service which is underpinned by our dedicated account management, operational support, and a sympathetic online portal service that makes ordering for your multi-site business easy, so you can concentrate on the things that matter most.

SECTOR

Telecomms

Telecoms is a sector of contrasts: one day your brand is seen on a shop floor, the next it's up a ladder or in a service van, and both need to look unmistakably yours.

For field and technical teams, we focus on workwear built for the job, hardwearing, weather-ready and practical, without losing sight of brand identity.

For retail and customer-facing staff, the emphasis shifts to a sharper, more polished look that reflects trust and expertise at the point of sale.

Bridging those two worlds under one consistent identity, across multiple sites and high staff turnover, is where our experience really counts.

As with our other sectors, this extends to branded merchandise – bags, drinkware, headwear, umbrellas, tech accessories and promotional giveaways; creating further opportunities to cross-sell beyond the core uniform offer.

Get in touch to discuss your telecoms uniform programme.

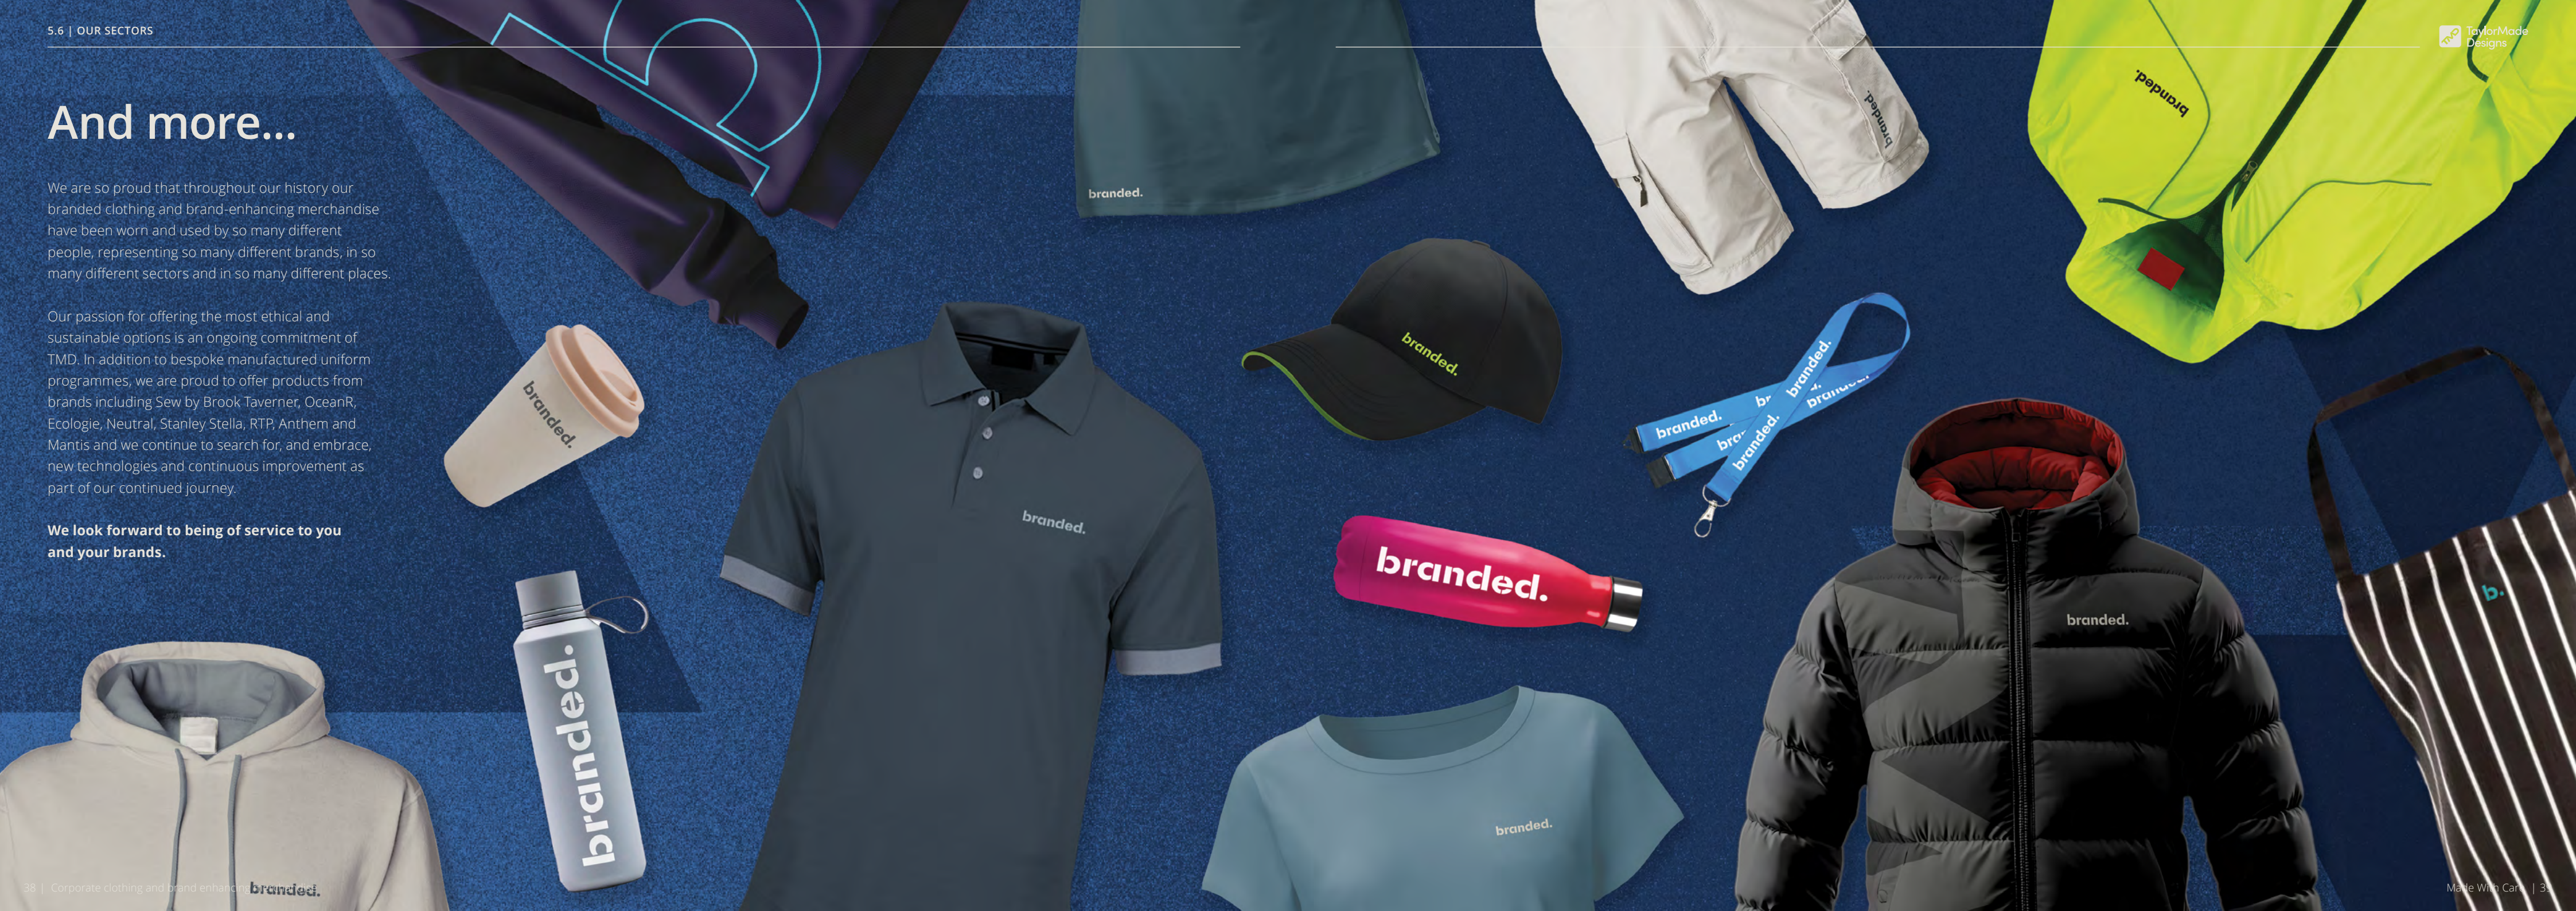

And more...

We are so proud that throughout our history our branded clothing and brand-enhancing merchandise have been worn and used by so many different people, representing so many different brands, in so many different sectors and in so many different places.

Our passion for offering the most ethical and sustainable options is an ongoing commitment of TMD. In addition to bespoke manufactured uniform programmes, we are proud to offer products from brands including Sew by Brook Taverner, OceanR, Ecologie, Neutral, Stanley Stella, RTP, Anthem and Mantis and we continue to search for, and embrace, new technologies and continuous improvement as part of our continued journey.

We look forward to being of service to you and your brands.

Big Ambition: a full uniform solution for 500 crew, Taylor Made Designs provides a complete managed solution for Ambassador Cruise Line

Ambassador Cruise Line are a British no-fly cruise line that serve 8 UK regional ports, carrying passengers to destinations across Europe and the Caribbean.

We were already supplying branded uniform to their first ship, Ambience, when Ambassador came to us to supply their second ship, Ambition.

A Whole-of-Ship Solution

Ambassador needed a full suite of fully-branded uniform for every role on board their new ship. This included 250 crew members, from front-of-house and deck crew to galley teams and engineers.

Our account managers discussed every part of Ambassador's uniform portfolio with them, then we sourced the very best product lines for them and our talented machinists got straight to work.

We had a tight timeline on this one, but we brought the project in on time and on budget. In all, we created an 860-piece collection of branded garments, ensuring that every crew member on board Ambition has everything they needed to look their best on board.

With 4 Parks globally, Legoland needed one supplier that could communicate between sites and deliver a sustainable uniform solution.

The Problem

Consistency between sites was key as well as considering the working environment and elements to which they would be worn. Starting with Europe, then the US, they wanted to pool their purchasing power but each had different wants and needs.

Secondly, with the primary colours of Lego, their challenge was to ensure all core uniform followed brand guidelines and the colours Legoland is so famous for. All staff needed to be easily identified which ever site they worked in whilst considering the spectrum of uniform requirements for each site.

And finally, they needed a solution that made it easy for each site to place orders, know what other sites wanted or needed and to receive their uniform ahead of the start of season.

Our Solution

After an initial consultation between all sites, on-site, TMD revised the materials of the existing core range to suit everyone. We examined the technical specification of all garments and, coupled with usage feedback, we designed and manufactured Pantone dyed garments to suit all 3 European parks and Carlsbad, USA. We were then able to offer a buying solution that the parks were happy with, look great in and more importantly, the staff felt comfortable wearing.

TMD act as the main communicator between the parks, visiting each to discuss requirements and future plans whilst building the relationship further to offer other uniform and brand enhancing merchandise outside of the core scope of uniform. As always, a designated account manager is assigned to look after all the day to day queries and questions.

The Outcome

All four sites across Europe and USA are wearing the same vibrant, consistent and sustainable uniform that meets all branding and identifiable requirements. Their dedicated account manager there to ensure that orders are placed in good time for the expected delivery and will manage the process from manufacturing and import through to delivery on-site.

Bespoke Uniform for a Leading Food Brand. Taylor Made Designs custom-manufacture role-specific jackets for delivery drivers.

Oakhouse Foods are a long-established national frozen food delivery company with a reputation for going the extra mile for their customers. As part of a major rebrand in 2024, they approached Taylor Made Designs to create a whole new uniform collection.

We delivered bespoke-branded garments for their talented team of delivery drivers, who act as the face of the brand. We also created a range of garments for the brand's hard-working office, kitchen and depot teams.

Bold Badges, Bright Patches

Delivery drivers are the face of the Oakhouse Foods brand. Drivers frequently carry frozen meal packages from the busy roadside right to the customer's kitchen. They need to stay safe and inspire trust in all weathers, at all times of day.

For driver's jackets & gilets, we custom-made practical outerwear that could combine safety with style. A single reflective strip wraps around the chest, from the right breast to the back of the garment, to keep drivers highly visible on night-time roadside deliveries. The same jackets are made from colour-matched soft fabrics, with bold, crisp embroidered badges on the left breast. This overtly branded uniform helps reassure customers who need goods delivered directly to their kitchen freezers. The theme follows through the entire driver collection, from summer polos to fleeces and headwear.

'Taylor'ed Designs for Every Role

In addition to driver uniforms, TMD also produced chef's whites, hoodies, headwear and branded aprons for the rest of the team. Where possible, we sourced these garments locally and embroidered or printed them in-house at TMD HQ.

Everyone in the Oakhouse Foods family, from the kitchen crews cooking the meals to the head office team handline sales and logistics, got fit-for-purpose branded garments to help them look and feel their best.

High-performance uniform for Haven Entertainments. Taylor Made Designs created a bespoke clothing range for Haven Entertainments.

An elite team of 500 entertainers work across Haven's portfolio of family-friendly holiday parks. Delivering top-quality in-person entertainment morning, noon and night, these talented actors, singers, dancers, technicians and hosts push their uniform to the limits.

Haven Entertainments came to TMD in search of a uniform that not only looks great but can also stand up to the physical demands of this very active department.

A consultative approach

Haven's dedicated account manager at Taylor Made Designs took the time to listen to the client's very specific needs. Haven's entertainers are extraordinarily active, so they needed performance fabrics that wouldn't tear easily or lose their shape. They also needed vivid, colour-fast garments that would survive multiple washes and keep the Haven brand looking sharp throughout the whole season.

Fit for purpose bespoke design

Once we understood the demands and challenges of the Haven Entertainments team, we got to work on a bespoke branded uniform and accessories bundle.

We designed and custom-manufactured a stylish collection of Haven-branded jackets, trousers, shorts, t-shirts and underlayers. We opted for a new stretchy material that hangs beautifully, breathes well and stays vibrant after multiple washes.

On-site uniform mobilisation

To help the 500-strong team of entertainers look their best, TMD spent a week onsite with Haven, personally handing out named duffels loaded with everything the team needed for the whole season. We set up mobile changing booths, swapping garment sizes where necessary, and offered in-person fitting advice so that entertainers could look their very best in their iconic Blue Coats.

Places Leisure operate over 120 leisure centres and employ over 7500 staff in partnership with local authorities all over the UK.

The Challenge

In 2015 Places Leisure rebranded and the management team needed to find a supplier that could design and manufacture a range of garments that were on-brand, fit for purpose and at the right price.

Our Solution

We submitted designs for all areas of the business and when they were approved, garment samples were produced. We provide Places Leisure with our full ‘uniform management’ service. We hold stock of their uniforms which can be called off via their designated e-store. This frees the sites from holding stock and they can order what they need, when they need it. This service reduces administration and minimises lead times. It also allows TMD to provide Places Leisure with valuable data for finance and delivery analysis.

The Outcome

Places Leisure now has a ‘single source provider’ for all their uniforms across all areas of their business. Staff across all the sites are wearing the agreed quality garments, branded with the same approved logos which ensures complete ‘uniformity’ and brand consistency across their entire estate.

Taylor Made Designs revitalised Trimline’s entire offsite uniform collection with an all-new black kit.

Moving away from grey

Trimline already had a collection of grey branded gilets and tops, but these lacked the visual impact that the consultancy wanted to make in shipyards and exhibitions across the globe.

Taylor Made Designs worked with Trimline on a whole new design: coal-black fabric garments, accented with the crisp Trimline logo in brilliant white.

We hand-picked the very best t-shirts, polos, quarter-zips, gilets, hoodies and jackets, then applied their bright white logo in a bold vertical or horizontal stripe.

Consistent branding, from shipyard to boardroom

Trimline’s business involves a lot of client meetings in many different environments. Their team of experts need branded uniform that works well whether they’re on site at a shipyards, exhibiting at a boat show or presenting in a client’s office.

The garments we chose for Trimline function well in every environment. Clothes look sharp up-close, while keeping the wearer comfortable.

Trimline have a dedicated account manager at TMD, and we are on hand to support them with anything they might need.
